

Re: Reference for Patrick Lowenthal

To Whom It May Concern:

It is with pleasure that I write a letter of reference for Mr. Patrick Lowenthal. I have known Mr. Lowenthal for five years and during that time, I have gained the utmost respect for him.

Patrick is thoughtful, considerate, and inquisitive. His commitment and enthusiasm for teaching, and in particular for the educational technology discipline, is contagious. He takes a sincere interest in those with whom he works and teaches. His dedication to the improvement of the educational process is apparent and is demonstrated by the accomplishments he has achieved during his tenure at Regis University in the Teacher Education program. Specifically, he has been able to juggle several different responsibilities including online teaching, course development, supervision, fiscal management, and curriculum evaluation to name a few. He is respected by his Regis and UCD colleagues and is the “go to” person when it comes to web development and online course design.

Collaboration and teamwork are concepts Patrick respects and applies to both his personal and professional lives. Fellow students and faculty, alike, value the contributions to the projects he has been involved in. He consistently receives accolades for his presentations at national conferences and can make even the most mundane topic interesting. Patrick is a scholar and understands the importance of the teaching and learning process. He has a knack for engaging the class in the topic and ensures that there is a broad understanding of the concepts. In short, he makes learning fun.

Patrick is a consummate teacher and scholar. He values the educational process and is committed to improving that process in order to provide a more meaningful learning experience for his students. He is extremely knowledgeable about educational technology and its application to today’s learning experience. Patrick would be a valuable asset to your institution and would soon become an indispensable faculty member.

It is without hesitation that I recommend Patrick Lowenthal for this position. Please contact me for additional information if needed.

Sincerely,

Teri R. Switzer
tswitzer@uccs.edu
Dean, Kraemer Family Library
University of Colorado at Colorado Springs
1420 Austin Bluffs Parkway
Colorado Springs, CO 80913